

HOW IT WAS DONE.

A Former Maysville Editor Figuring in an Unenviable Light in a Libel Suit.

Just after the Democratic convention last fall that nominated Colonel Albert S. Berry for Congress in the Kenton-Campbell district, the Covington Post created a sensation by publishing an article charging that Hon. Theo. F. Hallam, one of the candidates, had sold the Kenton delegation to Colonel Berry, the price being the payment by Colonel Berry of Mr. Hallam's bill at the St. Nicholas Hotel, Cincinnati, for provisions furnished his delegation on the steamer Henrietta. In substantiation of the charge it printed a fac simile bill issued by the St. Nicholas, as follows:

"Colonel A. S. Berry, per T. F. Hallam, to St. Nicholas Company, Dr., for provisions, etc., etc."

Mr. Hallam at once filed suit against the Post Company for heavy damages, and the case is now on trial in the United States Court at Cincinnati. The evidence so far introduced places W. P. Campbell, editor of the Post, in a very unenviable light. Mr. Campbell is remembered as editor of the late Maysville Democrat.

The Covington Commonwealth, in giving the developments at the trial, says: "Mr. Roth, of the St. Nicholas, testified that he had contracted with Mr. Hallam to provision the steamer Henrietta, and that a few days after the return of the boat he received a telephone message from some one who represented himself to be Colonel Berry's son, stating that he wished the bill of Mr. Hallam to be made out, and that he (Colonel Berry's son) would call at the St. Nicholas for it in a little while. The person at the telephone also wished to know the amount of the bill, which was given him. Mr. Roth directed his clerk to make out the bill against Theo. Hallam, and this was done, and shortly after a young man called, saying he was Colonel Berry's son, and wished the bill, and it was given to him. "About an hour later Mr. Roth testified the young man returned and said the bill was not made out as Colonel Berry wished it, and then requested Mr. Roth to make it out as follows:

"Col. A. S. Berry, per Theo. Hallam, to the St. Nicholas Company, Dr."

"Mr. Roth made out the bill as requested and delivered it to the young man, and the next he saw or heard of it, a fac-simile of the bill was printed in the Post. Mr. Roth further said that he never had any talk with Colonel Berry or anybody else about the payment of the bill except what he had related.

"Colonel Berry denied that he had sent his son to the St. Nicholas for the bill; denied that he had telephoned the St. Nicholas for it; denied having ever heard of any such bill till it was printed in the Post.

"Mr. Wald, representing Mr. Hallam, put Mr. Campbell, editor of the Post, on the stand, who related the disgraceful proceedings resorted to by him to injure Mr. Hallam's character. Mr. Campbell testified that he, himself, had called for Mr. Roth, of the St. Nicholas, by telephone, and that when Mr. Roth responded, he (Campbell) represented to Mr. Roth that he was Colonel Berry's son, and that Colonel Berry was standing by his side at the time, and that he wished Mr. Roth to make out the bill of Mr. Hallam for provisioning the Henrietta, and he (Campbell)—or Colonel Berry's son, as he represented himself to be—would call at the St. Nicholas for it in a short.

"Campbell denies calling for the bill in person but says he sent a person by the name of Pohlman, a man who had applied to him for work, was unknown to him, and came without recommendation or endorsement, and whom he didn't know where to find now, and knew nothing at all about him, and that this Mr. Pohlman went to the St. Nicholas and had the bill made out as printed above, and returned it to the Post, and they published it without either telephoning Colonel Berry or Mr. Hallam, or enquiring of either one of them. This amused spectators, Judge and jury. Mr. Wald embarrassed the young man some by asking him if he had any reason to suspect that he was Colonel Berry's son, to which he replied that he had so represented himself without authority from Colonel Berry.

"Campbell further testified that the people in politics in Kenton and Campbell counties were the most degraded set of political sharks on earth, and when he did so testify there was evident wincing on the part of his attorneys who wished he hadn't.

"It was testified by all other witnesses that the reason the Kenton delegation finally voted for Berry was, that at the two previous Congressional conventions in the Sixth District, Hallam's friends had both times nominated a county candidate, Mr. Dickerson, and each time the county delegates had pledged their votes to nominate Mr. Hallam the next time. This was the third time, and Mr. Hallam's friends had tired of the promises of the county delegates and concluded that Kenton would succeed better in a political way by standing firm with her neighbor, Campbell. At any rate nothing further was to be gained by again going to the country for a Congressman. This closed the plaintiff's testimony, and the defendant's testimony will be given on Monday."

MR. GEORGE R. GILL has hung over his desk in his office a souvenir from an admiring colored client, whom he saved from the penitentiary. It is "a half-worn horse shoe, cast from the right hind foot of a blazed-face sorrel mare, in the light of the moon," and believed by negroes to be a sign of good luck. But we expect the Judge's cash fee had more to do with his interest in the case.

It is reported that Hon. Charles J. Bronston, of Lexington, will be appointed Controller of the Treasury under Secretary Carlisle. This position is next in importance to the Secretaryship, and Mr. Bronston's appointment would remove the only obstacle to Mr. E. J. McDermott's securing the District Attorneyship for Kentucky. Mr. Bronston says he doesn't know anything about such an arrangement.

ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

William Vaughn Jailed as Estill's "Pal" in the Forged Check Business.

Chief of Police Fitzgerald and Constable Dawson arrested William Vaughn yesterday, on a bench warrant from the Mason Circuit Court, charging him with forgery. Vaughn was found at the corner of Third and Limestone.

A month or so ago a man giving the name of William Estill was arrested by Mr. Fitzgerald and Deputy Marshall Downey while in the act of trying to pass some forged checks. Four of the checks were found on his person, and all were signed by William Vaughn. Estill claimed at the time that he didn't write them, but that Vaughn had given or traded them to him.

Estill was indicted for the offense this week and then confessed and told all about the scheme. He claims Vaughn wrote the checks and then gave them to him to pass.

It is learned that Vaughn was recently married. He moved to this city a few weeks ago, and has been living on Second street, Fifth ward.

Vaughn was committed to jail in default of $500 bail.
